

Our patients refuse to give up.

Why would we?

Researchers at Children's Hospital are committed to finding cures for childhood diseases. Why? Because every day we're surrounded by kids who refuse to be defeated by their illnesses and disabilities. This gives us the hope and courage to keep working for them. They are more than just patients—they are our inspiration.

www.seattlechildrens.org

Children's Hospital & Regional Medical Center

Dr. Allison Eddy is head of Nephrology at Children's Hospital. She leads a team that has won national recognition for its expertise in kidney transplantation and the treatment of childhood kidney disease. This heroic work is made possible, in part, by the generosity of a caring community.

