

Elliott Weiss, MD

Elliott Weiss received his MD from Washington University in St. Louis and completed his pediatric residency at New York University & Bellevue Hospital. He is currently a fellow in Neonatology at the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia as well as a fellow in Advanced Biomedical Ethics in the Department of Medical Ethics & Health Policy at the University of Pennsylvania. His primary research interest is in the area of medical decision-making, with a special focus on parental decision-making for sick infants in the neonatal intensive care unit (NICU). He uses both conceptual modeling and empirical research to create a more nuanced understanding of parental decision-making. His major current project employs semi-structured interviews and surveys of parents with babies in the NICU to better elucidate how parents approach different types of decisions.